3 次は、中学生の Koji が書いた英文です。これを読んで、問 1～問 6 に答えなさい。*印のついている語句には、本文のあとに〔注〕があります。(18 点)

Many things are left on trains or at train stations every day. For example, people often forget their phones, bags, or clothes. These things are usually brought to a train station. After a few days or weeks, the train station sends them to a police station. Then, after a few months, the police station has to *dispose of these things.

Among all of these things, umbrellas are forgotten the most. People often forget their umbrellas, but only about one in ten people returns to get them back. Umbrellas [not / small / are / as / as] most of the other forgotten things. So, both train stations and police stations need a lot of *space to () them. A ^①

To *solve this problem, a *beverage company tried a new idea a few years ago. The company reuses umbrellas that people leave behind. B The company puts an umbrella box on the side of its *vending machines. If it starts to rain, and you have no umbrella, you can just take one from the box and use it. You don't need any money to borrow it. When it stops (rain), you should take it back to the box for the next person to use. C ^② All of the umbrellas in these boxes are the ones that were left on trains or at train stations. This idea helps people walking outside on rainy days. It also helps train stations and police stations.

〔注〕 dispose of～……～を処分する space……空間
 solve～……～を解決する beverage……飲み物
 vending machine……自動販売機

1 〈Arisa, Ken and Emma are talking.〉

Arisa : Hi! My family is going to watch the full moon at my house tonight. Would you like to come?

Emma : Why do you watch the moon?

Arisa : A lot of Japanese people enjoy watching the full moon around September because it is the most beautiful at this time of year. It's a Japanese event called tsukimi.

Emma : Sounds interesting.

Arisa : Can you be there by seven? How about you, Ken?

Ken : I'm interested, but are we just going to sit and watch the moon? What else will we do?

Arisa : We are having a dinner party, too.

Ken : Oh, then I'd love to go.

Arisa : Do you have an event to watch the moon in your country, Emma?

Emma : No, we don't, but I heard that the full moon in September is called *the harvest moon in my country, because people once *harvested *crops under the moonlight in September.

Arisa : Oh, really? Do you have any other stories about the moon in your country? We are going to give a speech in English class next week, so why don't you talk about that in your speech? I'm going to talk about *space in my speech.

〔注〕 the harvest moon……秋分に最も近い満月, ハーベストムーン
harvest……～を収穫する crop……作物
space……宇宙

問 1 空欄 にあてはまる最も適切なものを, 次のア～エの中から 1 つ選び, その記号を書きなさい。(3 点)

- ア How many people will visit you?
- イ What time should I visit you?
- ウ What is the best month to watch the moon?
- エ Is Ken coming, too?

問 2 本文 1 の内容と合うものを, 次のア～エの中から 1 つ選び, その記号を書きなさい。(3 点)

- ア In Emma's country, there is an event to enjoy watching the moon.
- イ In Japan, many people enjoy watching the moon because they harvested crops under the moon.
- ウ In Emma's country, people call the full moon in September the harvest moon.
- エ Emma decided to visit Ken because Ken's family was having a dinner party.

2 〈Next week, Emma gives a speech to her classmates.〉

My speech today will be about the moon. Last week, I enjoyed tsukimi. The moon that night looked different from the one I always see. People around the world have *created many stories about the moon. Some are very famous all over the world. I'm [you / that / sure / heard / stories / have] of men who become *wolves under the light of the full moon. I learned that the story of a girl born from bamboo is very famous in Japan.

People also see different things in the *surface of the moon. Arisa said that it looks like a rabbit. I was surprised because I've never seen it as a rabbit. My grandmother said it looks like the face of a woman. I think so, too. I asked some of my friends from other countries about this. Some said it looks like a *crab. Others said it looks like a lion.

The surface of the moon looks almost the same all over the world, but people look at it *differently. Different cultures look at the world in different ways.

[注] create～……～をつくりだす wolf……オオカミ
surface……表面 crab……カニ
differently……異なって

問 3 []内のすべての語を正しい順序に並べかえて書きなさい。(3点)

問 4 本文 2 の内容と合うものを、次のア～エの中から1つ選び、その記号を書きなさい。

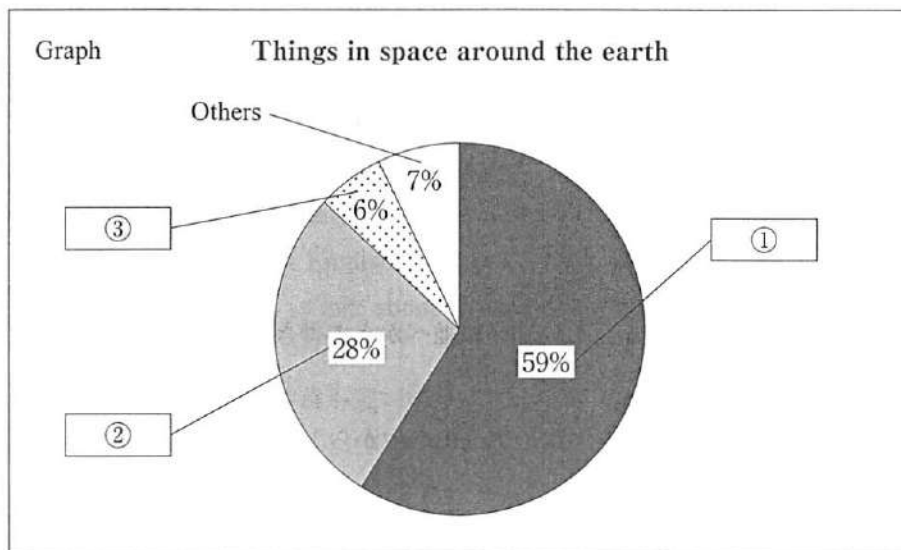

(3点)

- ア Emma said she didn't enjoy tsukimi at all.
- イ Emma was surprised to learn a story about bamboo on the moon.
- ウ Emma sees the surface of the moon as the face of a woman.
- エ Some of Emma's friends believe that lions live on the moon.

3 〈After Emma's speech, Arisa gives a speech to her classmates.〉

Today, I will talk about a problem in space: *space debris. There are a lot of things in space around the earth. Please look at this graph. It shows that about 6% of these things are *satellites made by humans and still *in use. Everything else is space debris. More than half of this space debris is broken pieces from rockets or satellites. This is followed by rockets and satellites that are not in use. All of the debris was sent into space by humans.

Why is space debris a problem? Here are two reasons. First, space debris is not safe. Space debris moves very fast, so it may hit satellites or *astronauts. Second, space debris makes more debris. If it breaks satellites, broken pieces from the satellites then become space debris, too. Most of the debris is so small that it can't be cleaned up. It will be more difficult to send rockets or satellites into space in the future because of space debris.
